STREET CHARACTER

Last month we discussed the concept of Form-Based Codes (FBC). Tonight, we will focus on streetscape character. In many ways, FBC is designed around the streetscape, emphasizing design in the public space over specific lots or types of use permitted.

STREET CHARACTER

A road diet, also called a lane reduction or road rechannelization, is a technique in transportation planning whereby the number of travel lanes and/or effective width of the road is reduced in order to achieve systemic improvements.

FUTURE LAND USE (FLU)

We also discussed FLU last month. What we didn't really dig into, is the concept of adding a transportation layer (or separate map) that works in coordination with the RLU map to identify locations for roadway improvements such as expansion, repaving, road diets, landscaping, etc.
